Race, Diversity, Bias, Inclusion and the Law

Senator Cyrus Habib

Cyrus Habib represents Bellevue, Kirkland, Redmond, Medina, Clyde Hill, and the Points Communities in the Washington State Senate. In 2012, Habib was elected to the Washington State House of Representatives, making him the first and only Iranian American Elected Official to hold a state office in the United States. Habib was recently named one of the "40 Under 40 Political Rising Stars of 2014" by the Washington Post and was named one of "12 State Legislators to Watch in 2014" by Governing Magazine. Habib was elected by his Senate colleagues to serve as whip in the Democratic Caucus leadership team.

Robotics and the Law

Professor Ryan Calo

Ryan Calo is an assistant professor at the University of Washington School of Law and an assistant professor (by courtesy) at the Information School. He is a faculty co-director (with Batya Friedman and Tadayoshi Kohno) of the University of Washington Tech Policy Lab, a unique, interdisciplinary research unit that spans the School of Law, Information School, and Department of Computer Science and Engineering. Professor Calo is a CoMotion Presidential Innovation Fellow for the class of 2015.

Data, Privacy Security and the Law

Rebecca Engrav, Esq.

Rebecca Engrav is a partner in the Perkins Coie Privacy and Data Security group. She litigates disputes for technology companies regarding online advertising, privacy and data security, user-generated content and intellectual property. More specifically, Engrav defends companies facing investigations or suits brought by federal and state government agencies and regulators, including the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). In addition, she counsels clients regarding online, social, and mobile advertising issues, such as restricted and illegal products, FTC guidance and enforcement, the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act (COPPA), the Communications Decency Act and right of publicity.

Closing Remarks

Richard Jost

Richard Jost is the Information Systems Coordinator at the Marian Gould Law Library of the University of Washington School of Law. He is responsible for identifying, evaluating and recommending the purchase of discovery and delivery tools in support of the library's mission, as well as, the management and upgrade of the library's integrated library system. In addition to these roles, he also lectures at the UW Information School.
